

Plus 1 Brown Fish Makes...

Goal: To add small groups of fish together.

This is a game for two or three players.

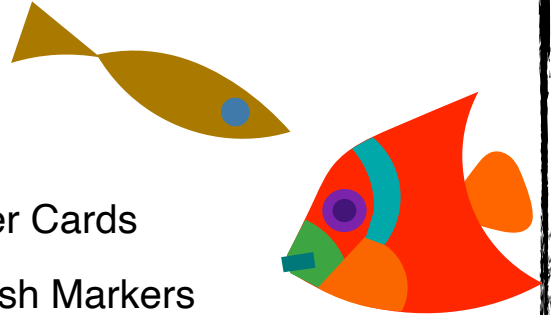

You will need:

Fish Cards

Number Cards

Brown Fish Cards

Five Fish Markers

What to do:

- Set up the game. Spread all of the fish cards on a flat surface, fish side up. This group of cards is called the fish pond. Stack the number cards in a pile, number side down. Stack the brown fish cards in a separate pile, fish side down.
- Each player takes one number card from the stack. The person with the biggest number goes first.
- On each player's turn, a number card is taken from the pile and placed face side up in front of the player. This card tells how many fish cards to remove from the fish pond. Next the player draws a brown fish card. The player adds the brown fish to the fish removed from the fish pond. The player announces the number of fish they have once the brown fish are added to the fish from the fish pond.
- Then it is the next player's turn.
- At the end of each round, the player who has the most fish gets a fish marker. All players return their fish to the pond and start another round.
- Play five rounds. The person who has the most fish markers at the end of five rounds wins the game.

Print and cut out a measuring worm or draw one of your own.

